JERRY VOORHIS

Jerry Voorhis of California: They Called Him a ‘Communist’—His Only Crime was to Challenge the Federal Reserve

If Jerry Voorhis were in Congress today, there's no doubt that he would be leading the fight to audit—and abolish—the Federal Reserve System.

Defenders of the Fed call its critics “right wing nuts.” But there's no way they could tar Voorhis with that label. In fact, Voorhis—a former registered member of the Socialist Party—was one of the most progressive members of Congress by anyone's standards. He served as a Democrat, representing a portion of Los Angeles County, from 1937 to 1947. However, Voorhis was an independent intellectual—a populist who was willing to buck the plutocratic elite—as he often did. As a consequence, it was taking on the Fed that turned the tide against

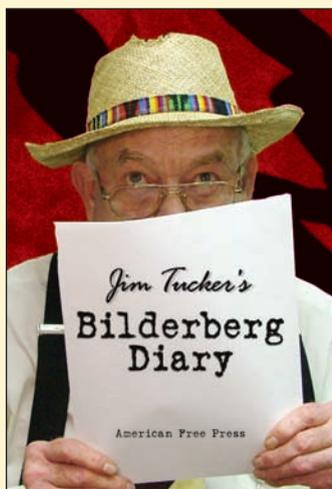

Jerry Voorhis.

A self-described “Christian socialist”—and also a committed anti-communist—Voorhis was wise to the usurious reality of the privately owned and controlled banking monopoly known as the Federal Reserve.

In 1943 Voorhis went so far as to write THIS stirring indictment of the Fed, a controversial work entitled Out of Debt, Out of Danger. In its pages Voorhis reviewed the history of the Fed and how it impacted upon American life to the detriment of this country's farmers, workers and small businessmen. And it was precisely because of Voorhis's outspoken lambasting of the Fed that he paid the ultimate political price. ★

The Secret Forces That Targeted Jerry Voorhis ...

In 1946, as Jerry Voorhis sought a sixth term in Congress, a well-heeled clique of financiers and industrialists (the “Committee of One Hundred”) selected and bankrolled a candidate to oppose Voorhis.

In fact, an emissary of one of the New York banking houses (which dominate the Fed through the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, the most influential of the Fed branches) came to California to meet with the committee, promising support for the campaign against Voorhis. Voorhis was considered “one of the most dangerous men in D.C.”—in the eyes of the plutocrats, that is.

The popular Voorhis, confident of reelection, was taken by surprise because of a particularly malicious “dirty tricks” operation against him, and he was defeated in a major upset. The mastermind of the hit-and-run campaign against Voorhis was a notorious Los Angeles lawyer known throughout his shady career for his seemingly endless array of organized crime connections: the enigmatic Murray Chotiner.

In later years Chotiner worked with the Anti-Defamation League (ADL) of B'nai B'rith in organizing a similar black-bag operation against Liberty Lobby, the populist institution that consistently targeted the plutocratic interests behind the Fed. Perhaps not coincidentally, the ADL's primary complaint against Liberty Lobby stemmed from the fact that Liberty Lobby had repeatedly asked the Justice Department to require that the ADL, a foreign agent for Israel, register as such with the Justice Department as required under the Foreign Agents Registration Act—legislation authored by none other than Jerry Voorhis.

In any case, Voorhis had clearly made some powerful enemies. So did, in later years, the young Republican who had been drafted by the plutocrats to run against Voorhis: none other than Richard Nixon. Ironically—prior to being “Water-gated”—Nixon said of Voorhis (whom he actually liked personally): “I suppose there was scarcely ever a man with higher ideals than Jerry Voorhis, or better motivated than Jerry Voorhis.”

Yet, nearly 30 years later when the plutocratic-controlled media's wrath came crashing down on Nixon, the media energetically recalled Nixon's 1946 campaign against Voorhis, carefully ignoring the fact that the international banking interests (which actually dominated the “mainstream media”) had been prime movers behind Nixon's assault on Voorhis. Voorhis died in California at age 83 in 1984. His legacy will not be forgotten. ★

UNDERSTAND Money & the Fed Swindle, Too!

They still won't admit the Fed is PRIVATELY owned—or face the real solution to the problem . . .

Many Democrats and Republicans alike—who now join the bandwagon of criticizing the Fed—refuse to admit that the Fed is a privately owned banking monopoly. They still insist the Fed is a “government” agency. OUT OF DEBT, OUT OF DANGER is the authoritative book by a former member of Congress that proves the Fed is a creature of the international plutocrats . . . AND WHICH PROVIDES A SOLUTION TO THE PROBLEM THAT PLAGUES US ALL! ★

Speaking Out—Again and Again and Again: Rep. Voorhis Calls for Nationalizing the Fed

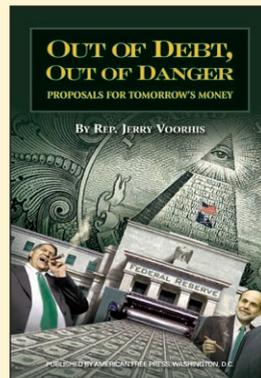

After his 1946 reelection defeat, Rep. Jerry Voorhis nonetheless remained an outspoken critic of the Fed and later wrote: “The Fed does not act as a government instrumentality of the nation, nor are its policies and practices determined with the nation in mind. Instead of that, the banks and bankers run the Fed and run it for the benefit of the financial community in almost every respect.” “Money creation,” according to Voorhis, “is the greatest economic power known to man. That power ought always to be exercised in the interest of all the people, never for the sake of private gain of a privileged few.”

“The banks—commercial banks and the Federal Reserve—create all the money of this nation, and the nation and its people pay interest on every dollar of that newly created money. This means that private banks exercise un-Constitutionally, immorally and ridiculously the power to tax the people. For every newly created dollar dilutes to some extent the value of every other dollar already in circulation.”

According to Voorhis: “A Federal Reserve System brought under control by the elected officials of the United States could be run in the public interest instead of for the money-lending community as is now the case.” ★
