DEPLORABLES WIN!

- Broad coalition of voters denies Clinton presidency
- Working-class Americans shock media, Hillary

By Paul T. Angel

On the morning of Nov. 8, I woke up in my deplorable little bed, put on a pair of pants and a shirt (the kind only deplorable people such as I wear), slipped on my favorite pair of deplorable sneakers (with the hole in the right sole) and made my way down the steps of my deplorable little house in Virginia and out to the garage.

I then started up my deplorable little car and drove out of my definitely deplorable neighborhood and headed to my assigned polling station. There I waited in line with a bunch of other deplorable “rural” voters and flipped the lever for Donald Trump.

And, despite the predictions of thousands of media pundits and political experts, so did 60 million other “deplorable” Americans.

That’s right: We deplorables did it, just as we hoped for in an editorial on the front page of AFP Issue 39/40 dated Sept. 26 & Oct. 3.

In that editorial we promised Hillary Clinton: “Your time has come. We deplorables will unite in November and head to voting booths to deny you the chance to tear down this nation any further.” And we did.

Little did I know that AFP would be the only news outlet we know of in America to predict a Hillary defeat in the face of an unending media assault on New York billionaire Trump and the assurance that there was no way he could beat the heavily favored Clinton.

Well, he did it, thanks to the millions of deplorable voters that had had enough of the Clinton dynasty, enough of the Clinton arrogance, enough of the seemingly endless laundry list of Clinton corruption for which they have never had to pay.

Well, finally, they have paid and paid dearly.

The election of Donald Trump—the first man in American history to win the presidency who was neither a politician nor a high-ranking U.S. Army officer—likely means the end of Hillary Clinton’s political career and the stranglehold she and Bill have maintained over the Democratic Party since the 1990s. And that’s good.

Trump’s election is unlike any before. He has singlehandedly transformed the GOP from a party perceived as catering to the whims of powerful special interests, mega-rich Wall Street bankers and stock tycoons into one that he insists will place us deplorables first. This is music to the ears of patriots who have been begging for this moment for many decades.

So let us take this opportunity to bid a fond “welcome” to Donald Trump and “good riddance” to that deplorable couple, Bill and Hillary Clinton. In the end, they got what they deserved. May they never disgrace the American political process again.

And to Mr. Trump, whenever you are in need of reliable information—not the kind you’ll get from some of the neocons who are knocking on your door right now—just open up an issue of AMERICAN FREE PRESS and you’ll find the truth. Remember: It’s deplorable little people like me and the subscribers of this paper that got you your four-year stay in the White House free. ★
